TAGUA

SEED & FRUIT

DESIGNED FOR LIFE,
MADE WITH LOVE,
ENJOYED BY ... YOU

Green Age creates jewellery and accessories individually handmade using only the finest natural materials, mostly palm seeds and fibres.

The main component in all collections is the Tagua Nut, also known as vegetable ivory. This nut is actually the seed of the Phytelephas macrocarpa palm that grows near the Colombian Pacific coast. Its creamy colour, density and hardness make the Tagua Nut an eco-friendly substitute for actual ivory and is one of the few materials that becomes more beautiful with age.

Green Age supports socially and economically underprivileged women in Cali, Colombia and meets all the Fair Trade principles and guidelines. Green Age jewellery is design by Ana Maria F. von Greiff; each piece is a vibrant mix of striking colours and a fresh combination of shapes from natural materials. The style of every single piece is perfectly fitted to the latest fashion trends and you will also enjoy wearing it from season to season.

BASKETRY

Made with natural fibers from native plants of Colombia

Our household and decorative basketry objects combine different types of vegetable fibers such as Iraca palm leaves (Carludovica palmata), Esparto grass (Juncus ramboi ssp. colombianus), Gaita leaves (Rhipidocladum harmonicum), the stem of Mimbres (Salix humboldtiana), Fique (Furcraea macrophylla), Moriche palm leaves (Mauritia flexuosa) and Paja Blanca leaves.

All these natural threads are very strong and resistant to extremely high and low temperatures.

The fine weaving contained in our basketry objects is entirely handmade by artisan women from beautiful rural regions of Colombia such as Boyacá, Nariño, La Guajira, and Santander, who employ unique and ancestral techniques to create this fine artwork.

To create the works, first the fibers are collected manually, then washed and put in the sun for approximately 20 days. For the fibers to lose their greenish color, they must be cooked for at least 2 hours. In this way, they are bleached, then they are separated by size and thickness; thus ensuring that the fabric is even. Finally, the threads are delicately interwoven without the help of needles, molds, or machines. The weaving and completion of each object can take between 3 hours and five days, depending on the size and its complexity.

Due to its strength, flexibility, lightness, permeability, and grace, it lasts for a very long time and serves several valuable and decorative purposes.
